Elam Frost was born in Meigs County, Ohio, March 8, 1831, the son of Elam and Lucy Frost. He was among the younger children of this family of 10 or 12, four of whom later came to Oregon.

Samantha Mary Frost was born in Meigs County, Ohio, March 16, 1831, <sup>of Revolutionary stock</sup> the daughter of Thomas Everton and Deadema Paulk. She and Elam Frost were married in Adams County, Illinois March 12, 1854. They were distantly related, but had not been acquainted with each other in Ohio. There were six children by this marriage, and in 1869 they removed to Oregon for the benefit of Mr. Frost's health, making the journey via New York, the Isthmus of Panama, San Francisco and Portland. From Isaac Frost, his brother, he bought the Samuel Barlow farm on the banks of the Willamette, near what was later Canby. This place was known as Frost's Landing for many years. A fine stand of timber, which would be worth a fortune now, was made into cordwood and sold to the river boats. Among these were the Orient and Occident.

About 1884 the family removed to Dupur, Oregon where a married daughter had preceded them. There the second son, George Edward died on the farm which his father had purchased and which was known as the Burford place.

Still in search of health, another move was made to Hood River where Samantha Frost died about 1894, and Mr. Frost died a few years later at the home of his daughter, Mary Stevens, in Canby.
