

New York, Dec. 22nd 1940.

Dear Mrs. Hogarth,

I waited with answering your letter of Dec. 14th because I thought I might hear from Mr. Glaser in the meantime. As I did not I suppose he is not yet through with his estimates.

As to your proposal of my sharing the costs with Houghton Mifflin of the patent they want to apply for re: my stunt books, I must confess that I unfortunately cannot accept it.

It was never my intention to spend money on an additional protection of these books by applying for a patent, all the more as I doubt that such patent will be granted.

When you first told me that HM wanted to apply for a patent I had no reason to object, but that did not mean that I was willing to make expenses to that end.

Did you ever have any more news from Chatter? We never heard from them since July.

With best wishes for a merry Xmas from both of us, and with kind regards

Yours sincerely

THE UNIVERSITY OF CHICAGO

1955

and the other is the fact that the
the first of the two is the fact that the
the second of the two is the fact that the

the first of the two is the fact that the
the second of the two is the fact that the
the third of the two is the fact that the

the first of the two is the fact that the
the second of the two is the fact that the
the third of the two is the fact that the

the first of the two is the fact that the
the second of the two is the fact that the
the third of the two is the fact that the

the first of the two is the fact that the
the second of the two is the fact that the
the third of the two is the fact that the

the first of the two is the fact that the
the second of the two is the fact that the
the third of the two is the fact that the

